“ I will always remember the long, hot summer days I would string up tobacco while C.T. would be my cropper.

We worked on the outside of an old harvester so we usually only talked to each other while working.

C.T. was quiet at first, but after we bonded as friends, he would show more of his wonderful personality.

He was funny, had his own pace, and was usually the same each time I saw him.

He matured so spiritually throughout the passing years and was a loyal servant to our LORD and Savior.

C.T. witnessed the Good News of Jesus Christ to all who would receive the Word.

Praise God for the great memories in this pilgrimage.

I will see you again someday my friend.
